REMINGTON REAR SCOPE BASE FOR REMINGTON 700 The Rear Scope Base for the Remington 700 is a precision-machined mounting solution designed to provide a stable and secure platform for optics installation. Engineered specifically to fit the rear receiver mounting points of the Remington 700, this base ensures proper alignment for consistent accuracy and dependable performance in hunting, tactical, or target shooting applications. Constructed from lightweight yet durable aluminum, this rear scope base offers excellent strength without adding unnecessary weight to your rifle. The matte black finish reduces glare and blends seamlessly with most factory rifle finishes, delivering a clean, professional appearance while helping resist corrosion in harsh field conditions. Designed for straightforward installation, this rear base mounts directly to factory-drilled and tapped receivers using compatible screws. Whether replacing a worn base or building a custom setup, this aluminum rear scope base provides a solid foundation for reliable optic mounting on your Remington 700 platform.
